To Our Valued Customers and Partners,

In accordance with state and federal guidelines, Farrar Scientific Corporation and our first- and second-tier suppliers are Essential Businesses that can, and should, maintain manufacturing operations throughout the COVID-19 emergency. Shelter in Place does not apply to manufacturing companies that are producing critically-needed, essential materials.

Farrar Scientific Corporation is exempt from any local, state, or federal non-essential business closures, because we manufacture products which are required for the distribution of life-sustaining and life-saving pharmaceutical products.

Thus, in the event of a Shelter in Place or non-essential business closure directive from any state in which we operate, we will continue to manufacture our thermal cold chain solutions which sustain the global pharmaceutical supply chain.
